

'NATURE NEVER JESTS'

— Albrecht Von Haller

Von Haller; physician, anatomist, poet and, above all, botanist, believed passionately in the value of sharing knowledge and expertise.

This enabled him to build a legacy of inspiring excellence and led us to create a gin in his honour that is a testament to his passion.

Von Haller's freigeist approach is perhaps best exemplified in the Göttingen Botanical Garden, which he founded in 1736 as a living laboratory in which the properties of plants might be studied and classified.

From those same gardens Count Carl Hardenberg calls upon his rich family distilling knowledge as he curates the core botanicals in this remarkable gin – German ginger, Halleria Lucida and lemon verbena.

The result is an extraordinary gin – aromatic, distinctive, pure.
